THE AGRICULTURISTS

Meet and Elect N w Officers for N xt Year.

The Matter of New Grounds Thoroughly Discussed, and They Will Not Be Changed.

The Stark County Agricultural Society convened at 11 o'clock this morning at their headquarters in the court house, President N. E. Mofflt, of Massillon, presided and Secretary J. F. Niesz read the minutes and attended to other clerical work of the society.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The old Board having completed its term of office, a reorganization was effected at the meeting this afternoon and the new Board took charge of all drs. The following officers were elected:

President, W. H. Essiy, Perry township.
Vice president, J. W. Teeters, Alliance.
Treasurer, Henry A. Wise, Canton.
Secretary, J. F. Niesg, Canton.
Superintendent of grounds, J. F. Roth.
Canton township.

In retiring from the presidency of the old board, Mr. Moillt thanked the members for courteses extended and dwelt at some length on the progress made by the Besig, thanked the members for the honor conferred upon him and pledged his support to the society in the future as he had given it in the past. The matter of deciding whether or not a new site would be selected for holding future exhibitions was thoroughly aired. Many of the members favored a change and many were against it. The greater part of the afternoon was taken up with this discussion.

WILL NOT CHANGE THE SITE.

Late this afternoon a proposition was made to appoint a committee to consider the offer of different sites for the proposed new grounds. This proposition was woted down, it being the sentiment of the members of the Board that under existing circumstances, among which is the scarcfty of funds, it would not be advisable to of this union one daughter was left to mourn the loss of an affectionate father. Until about two years ago Mother Brendal enjoyed ordinary good health, but at that time began failing and continued so until the time of her death. During the last year her decline was rapid and for many days her children and friends had been taking for her final suppress. looking for her final summons. Her de-sire was to leave the things of this life, which for her had no longer any charms. She longed for her pilgrimage to close, that she might go home and he at rest.

The summons came, and in obedience to the call, with eyes toward Heaven, she passed away as calmly as the setting of the sun. Her christian life spanned a period of over twenty years, during which time she was a worthy member of the German Haptist church. Se lived an exemplary life from which at home or emplary life from which, at home or abroad, shone forth the rays of christian abroad, shone forth the rays of christian principles to help her relatives, neighbors and friends up the rugged way, of life. The church loses a mother in Israel, the community a kind and loving friend, whom none knew but to esteem and love. All who knew her gave her as she merited, their respect and confidence, and we are glad that we can commend her as an example worthy to be patterned after by her many friends. Through this affliction, to the children who are left to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate mother, brothers and sister, is grievous to be borne. Yet they sorrow not as those without hope. Yet they sorrow not as those without hope. Her funeral discourse was preached by Elders Conrad and John Kahler at the Elders Conrad and John Kahler at the Center church, to a large and attentive congregation, from the text selected by her, Rev. xiv:13, after which her remains were consigned to the grave in the adjoining countery to await the resurrection of the just. We tender the family of the deceased our heartfelt sympathy, and as a consolation remind them that she "is not dead, but sleeping. She will rise again."

Report Regarding the Condition of the County Jail and Other Matters of In-

The Grand Jury just discharged was one of the best which has ever served the county, and having a number of cases of vital importance to the perpetuation of peace and good morals in the county, their work was of a high order and recieves the approbation of all lovers of good laws. Following is the official presented:

we, the Grand Jury for the term of court A. D. 1891, beg leave to submit the following report: That we have, in obedience to the law and the orders of the court, visited the county jail and examinates. ed into its condition, treatment of prisoners there confined, etc., and after carefully examining the same, we find that the rules herotofore prescribed by the court for the government of prisoners have been properly cared for and treated by the sheriff and his attenments, and the il in as good condition as it is possible

We find that the kitchen in which the cooking is done for the prisoners is not properly ventilated and would argently dvise that two windows be placed in the outh side of said room at once. We would also advise the removal of an inused range from the dining room of the sheriff's residence as it is no longer used for cooking purposes and the room can-not be properly heated by such range and it is practically of no use and prevents the placing of a stove therein.

Respectfully submitted.

J. F. WILLIAMS,

OTHER INDICTMENTS FOUND.

Among the indictments returned by the grand jury, not published last evening, was one against Judson D. Lewis, of Alli-ance, against whom a true bill was found or embezzlement. Lewis was employed as attorney for Leslie & Co., and in the first count in the indictment is charged with embezzling and converting to his own use, the sum of $50, which he had in his possession as attorney for the firm. The second count in the indictment charges him with embezzling $114 37 from the same firm in the same manner. An indictment was returned against one

John Buss, on the charge of embezzling $17.58 from Louis Fournot. Buss was agent for Tournot, and converted money collected to his own use.

Frank Machamer, charged with selling liquor to minors, was also indicted.

A true bill was found against John B. Krutz, on a charge of selling liquor on election day.

MAXWELL SCHOTT INDICTMENT. The Grand Jury also returned an indictment against David P. Maxwell and Charles W. Schott on the charge of attempting to procure an abortion. The indictment sets forth that such attempt was made Nov. 24, '89 by means of an instru-ment, and in consequence of the use of such instrument Lillie Bordner died De-cember 6, '89. That the instrument was used without the consent of two reputable physicians, and that such treatment was not necessary to save the life of said Lille

The Review on the Y. M. D. C.

The Alliance Review says: "The Young Men's Democratic club of Canton installed their new officers on Tuesday evening. This organization proposes to run the politics of the county, dictating its nominations and in many other ways making itself obnoxious. With all its faults it must be admitted that as an organization it is one of the best in the State. Its members are party hustlers, and their work during campaigns is of a character that tells." character that tells.

The Review man evidently started off to tell a big lie, but thought better of it and concluded to compliment this sterling organization.

The Big Harvester Trust Conspires to

Columbus, Jan 15.—[Special.]—People who seem to know something about the recent Harvester Trust, laugh at the report that the Trust no longer exists. One of the leading business men in Northern Ohlo said here today that the organization of the Harverster Trust was made too public for the good of its combine, and fearing a bitter opposition from the far mers of the county, the members of the association concluded to meet for the purpose of dissolving, when in fact they met and organized a secret combine, which still exists and is as strong as any combination ever organized for the combination ever organized for the purpose of squeezing the farmers. Hon. John T. McGraw of Springfield, son-in-law of General Asa Bushneli, when asked as to the truth of the report said "that he would not say that there was such an organization and would not attempt to deganization, and would not attempt to de my that such an organization existed."
Mr. McGrew said that he could see no reason why the farmers should oppose the combination as he believed that it would be to their benefit. He also said that a close combination would be formed or else the Harvester men would fight each other harder than they ever did be

RUTHFUL JAMES' BIG TALK.

Ingalis' Salty Speech on Republican

Shortcomings and Big Bid For the Farmers' Alliance Vote For Senator. Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.-Senator John James Ingalls, of Kansas, made a big bid to the Farmers' Alliance of Kansas to re-elect him Senator, in his two hours' speech yesterday on the free coinage amendments. Realizing that it might be his last speech in the Senate be laid his soul bare in a stupendous effort to retrieve lost prestige and make himself once more the idol of distracted Kansas.

He directed his attention principally to the discentent among the people with the old parties which had given rise to the new Farmers' Alliance movement, of which he is probably to be the first victim, and with an utter disregard of the fact that he has been always a representative of railroad interests he attacked corporate wealth and hugged very close to the doc-trines of the Farmers' Alliance, especially on the money question. He criticised the Republican party viciously for the unsat-Republican party viciously for the unsat-isfactory silver act of last session and at-tributed to it in a great measure the blight-ing frost which overtook the party last November, and lifting up his hand in slow, deliberate tones he warned the senate, the house and the president that unless they bowed to the will of the people the people would fill every branch of the government with representatives who would carry out their wishes.

Ingalls drew a sharp contrast between the state of the country in Washington's time and the present, which he characterized as a period of tyranny—combined, concentrated, centralized and conscienceless. We are accustomed to speak of this as the land of the free and the home of the brave, and it would soon be the home of the rich and the land of the slave. It was no wonder that the laboring and agricultural classes of this country had at last awakened, and the specutry had at last awakened, and the specu lators must take warning.

Referring to the late election, he said it was neither a Republican defeat nor a Democratic victory. It was a great uprising, independent of and superior to both political parties. It was a crisis that might become a catastrophe. It was a peaceful revolution. GRANT HYPNOTIZED BY THE MONEY POWER.

He attributed the depression in the country in great measure to the demonet-ization act of 1873. He did not claim that that act had been passed fraudulently. His only explanation of its passage was that both houses of Congress and the cresident had been hypnotized by the money power. He had not the slightest doubt that a great majority of the people, irrespective of party, were in favor of the free coinage of silver and had been for the past lifteen years. They had been the past lifteen years. They had been they are given is one of the Redfern models, the results of the Redfern models. contumeliously trodden under foot. Warnings and admonitions had been in this debate; but say to those who arraying themselves against the desper ately expressed judgment of the American people—he would say to the Senate, to the House and to the executive—that there would come a time when the people would not be trifled with on this subject. Some time the people would elect a House of Representatives, a Senate and a President who would carry out the party pledges and execute the popular will. The political power of the nation had been transferred from the circumference to the center and the people of that center were unanimously demanding free coinage of silver. It was for that reason that he should cordially support the amendment of the Senator from Nevada. In doing so he wou'd not only follow the dictates of his own judgment but would carry out the wighes of the areat majority of his wishes of the great majority of his con-stituents, irrespective of party or political affiliations.

REED IN THE MESSIAH ROLE. He is Expected to Kill the Silver Bill and Revivify the Force Bill Craze.

Washington, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The fate of the Silver bill in the House is eagerly discussed. Those opposing it shake their heads wisely and say Reed will find a way to kill it, but friends of the measure do not believe it can be done. A Compliment for Hon. John E. Monnot. A Columbus special to the Plain Dealer A Columbus special to the Plain Dealer says: Hon. John Hancock, state commissioner of common schools, lays considerable stress in his annual report on the proposition to consolidate Miami and Ohio universities with the Ohio State university at Columbus. Mr. Monnot has, dur-ing his membership in the House, been a champion of the various propositions looking to a change in the system to provide school books for the pupils of Ohio with a view of reducing their cost, and two years ago when before the Senate committee on schools, he touched upon it and strongly urged the consolidation of the three institutions now supported by the State and covered in the commissioner's report.

AN OSNABURG FIRE.

Two Children Have a Narrow Escape from Being Burned Alive.

They are Thrown from a Second Story Window---The Loss Will Reach $4,000 --- Insurance $800.

The quiet little village of Osnaburg, this The quiet little village of Osnaburz, this county, was the scene of a conflagration at 10:30 Sunday night which threatened for a time to completely wipe out the entire hamlet. As it was the fire assumed considerable proportions, and the inmates of the buildings which were burned barely escaped with their lives.

The fire started in the residence of Charles Hale. Hale runs a grocery store, his family living up stairs. The first intimation of the fire the members of the household had was when they were awakened by the stifling hot smoke which came pouring into the sleeping rooms.

household had was when they were awakened by the stifling hot smoke which came pouring into the sleeping rooms.

The town is not provided with means for fighting a fire, and the building was entirely at the mercy of the element. The members of the Hale family had a narrow escape. It being impossible to make an exit by means of the stairway, a son of Mr. Hale threw his little brother and sister from the window, and they were caught by willing hands below. The remainder of the family escaped without obtaining any of their clothing. Young Hale had $200 and a valuable gold watch which he had to leave behind. The fire soon spread to the adjoining building, owned by Dr. Faulk, and occupied by H. H. Oilinger, a barber. After consuming this building the fire gained headway on the building adjoining, in which was a boot and shoe store and the post office. This building was almost entirely con sumed. The meat market of Mr. Seli was also burned, and the flames were communicated to the Koehler residence, across the alley. This building was also partly burned. partly burned.

The Canton fire department was noti-fied and assistance asked. The steamer and hose cart, under the supervision of Bob Mesnar, left here at 11:30, arriving at the scene of the fire at 12:25. The hill near the Numan farm was too steep for the horses drawing the heavy steamer, and the hose cart, was driven on to Osnaburg and an extra team of horses sent back to assist the steamer into town. The fire was under control when the department arrived, but danger of a further spread of fire was obviated by playing upon the ruins. Several cisterns were pumped dry, the supply of water being very meagre. The department returned to the city at 5 o'clock this morning.

The loss on property is estimated at burg and an extra team of horses sen The loss on property is estimated at $4,000. Insurance will cover about half the loss. Cause of fire unknown. A LATER ACCOUNT.

·Messrs M. Moul and Jesse Zartman, of Osnaburg, were in the city this morning and from them it was gleaned that the loss would reach $4,000, and that the only nsurance is $800, on the Schuffell build-

The brave actions of Albert Hale, the seventeen year old son of Chas. Hale, receives the highest commendation. It was through his efforts that the entire family was saved. Not only did he rescue the younger members of the family, but assisted all to escape from the window. He worked hard and earnestly to save the property of others when he saw that any property of others when he saw that any attempt to save the property of his own family would be futile.
